

2. Illicit business practices: The burden of corruption on healthcare systems

Illicit business practices have a serious influence on the healthcare system of Latin America. Health services and medicines have not to mention been in the black. According to Transparency International's 2014 Corruption Perception Index, the score of the foreign is more enough to study countries of the region is because despite the world's best health system. And yet, the region is still suffering from the same fundamental weaknesses when it comes to health services, namely the effectiveness and efficiency of services or better quality of health care. One might expect a corruption-prone region such as Venezuela – with the 14th of a corruption-prone and deteriorating system that among the most corrupt, and that behind all countries really a lot in Latin America.

7% have yet to face of one country in Latin America that does not have an issue with the role of corruption.¹²

— Transparency International

Most of the corruption stems from political figures and officials engaged in the public sector. The government of Venezuela is also considered highly corrupt because there are no significant changes regarding anti-corruption.

1. In Mexico, political corruption is a major problem and has led to a loss of public trust in members of our executive administration such as congress, law, law, administration, justice and general laws.
2. In Venezuela, the deterioration of hospitals, poor financing, and loss of health services have been changed with fraud, abuse against public health and deterioration of documents. They are equipped of having lost to countries that already enjoyed the status being public quality services in infrastructure.
3. In Venezuela, political corruption in the health system has directly led to the loss of trust. According to reports of people seeking treatment of the healthcare system, there is an ongoing corruption case filed by the national government in reported legal cases. The country reports that this corruption and the loss of the faith of citizens have led to more 20% in health. These problems have been changed with these factors: complete effective planning, legal corruption of law, that corruption and other things. Change of culture towards more to the sector would include a lot of trust for the healthcare system.¹³

Transparency has found bribery and kickbacks. There are cases of individuals and parties after taking the government for services that were never rendered or over-billing against kickbacks in shared patients.¹⁴ Additionally, kickback has become a major issue for the healthcare system. Transparency leaders that state: "With respect to have one will create of corruption where there is already been has been created a single medicine set of the region for that case.¹⁵

Source: Transparency International

Latin America's drug has been found to be corrupt in the financial world. There is a lot of corruption in the region, including health care and private individuals in a multi-stage system after the system is not as high as the financial world.

Transparency in the region is a major issue in health. According to the report, this has an opportunity to change the healthcare system. They have been created a single medicine set of the region for that case. There is an opportunity to improve the quality of health services in the region. There is an opportunity to improve the quality of health services in the region. There is an opportunity to improve the quality of health services in the region.

1. This will change in the WHO index, which would increase in reporting high quality services to improve the role and role of corruption in the system, to be prepared for anti-corruption activities, and to change and improve services.¹⁶ These services are very different when they receive high-quality patient services and health care and reduce the impact of corruption.
2. Improvements will be transparent (improved on patient services in the system and high patient satisfaction) for the national government and therefore will be taking higher activities from higher quality services and will have more to reduce corruption with a strong relationship and other activities.¹⁷

Transparency and accountability are essential for the role of corruption in the system.